

India-Indonesia Reunites On Terrorism Issue

India and Indonesia has joined hands on the issue to fight terrorism

It has also decided to expand their defence, maritime securities

The talk was between Narendra Modi and President Joko Widodo

The two countries also decided to boost trade and investment in oil, gas, IT

A joint communiqué for combating illegal and unregulated fishing was also done

Two MoU's were signed to provide cooperation to youth affair, sports

The heads of both the countries called upon the other countries to implement United Nations Security Council Resolution 1267 (banning militant groups). This was reference to China's blocking of India's move to get Jaish-e-emuhammad chief Masood Azhar

The 'South China Sea' dispute needs to be solved out peacefully in accordance to United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS) urged the leaders of the nation

The United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS), also called the Law of the Sea Convention or the Law of the Sea treaty, is the international agreement that resulted from the third United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS III), which took place between 1973 and 1982. The Law of the Sea Convention defines the rights and responsibilities of nations with respect to their use of the world's oceans, establishing guidelines for businesses, the environment, and the management of marine natural resources.